The men from station one were on the scene by this time and water was turned on in two streams. During the latter progress of the fire water was secured from the troubled hydrant. The chemical engine did good work and in a half an hour the fire was out. The barn was located in a hollow near a large tenement house and the absence of wind prevented a more disastrous blaze. The barn was filled with hay in the upper part, which made a good blaze and lighted up the street for some distance, giving the impression of a much larger fire and drawing a large crowd of spectators. A few wagens and sleighs and a horse were on the ground floor but it is believed these were all gotten out.

Street Commissioners Demand a Right and Get It.

Attorney Peck Secures a Continuance of the Case until This Afternoon-Nothing Done with Police

The two members of the board of street commissioners, N. K. Brown and J. W. Votey, and the two members of the board of police examiners, Robert Noble and L. E. Palmer, appeared Monday might and L E Palmer, appeared Monday night before the city council in response to resolutions passed by the council asking them to appear and show cause why their offices should not be declared vacant. The matter in regard to the street commissioners was the only one taken up, the other being continued; and the hearing in regard to the street commissioners was largely sparring for points, a continuance finally being taken until this afternoon at three o'clock. Attorney H. S. Peck appeared for the commissioners and asked that specific Attorney H. S. Peck appeared for the commissioners and asked that specific charges be furnished and time given the commissioners in which to file their answer. This plan was opposed by the mayor and Alderman Shea, the former contending that the charges as contained in the resolution were specific enough and that 30 minutes would be time enough in which to file an answer. He also held that the commissioners were thoroughly in which to file an answer. He also held that the commissioners were thoroughly conversant with the charges, and he had talked with them about the matter. Al-derman Shen contended that the council derman Shen contended that the council had a right to question any city official about their respective departments and that an official so questioned should be more than willing to answer questions. In the end Attorney Peck gained his point, the specific charges being furnished and the continuance being granted. After the minutes of the last meeting had been read the mayor announced that the first business was to consider the matthe first business was to consider the mat ter relative to the street commissioners. Alderman Shea asked Commissioner Brown to step forward and answer some ques-tions. Attorney Peck addressed the board saying that he represented Mr. Brown and that he wished to make a statement.

Alderman Shes said that the board had a right to ask Mr. Brown questions and that he should answer them personally. BLAZE IN A BARN.

Mr. Peck said he had yet to learn of a case where a man had been deprived of the right to have coupsel when charges had been preferred against him. He said Burlington had been a city to years and this was the first time such an objection had been offered. After considerable discussion the mayor ruled that the commissioners were untitled to counsel. Attorney Peck then read the following statement, signed by the commissioners:
